The Green Marketing Manifesto John Grant 2009-08-11 We are currently eating, sleeping and breathing a new found religion of everything 'green'. At the very heart of responsibility is industry and commerce, with everyone now racing to create their 'environmental' business strategy. In line with this awareness, there is much discussion about the 'green marketing opportunity' as a means of jumping on this bandwagon. We need to find a sustainable marketing that actually delivers on green objectives, not green theming. Marketers need to give up the many strategies and approaches that made sense in pure commercial terms but which are unsustainable. True green marketing must go beyond the ad models where everything is another excuse to make a brand look good; we need a green marketing that does good. The Green Marketing Manifesto provides a roadmap on how to organize green marketing effectively and sustainably. It offers a fresh start for green marketing, one that provides a practical and ingenious approach. The book offers many examples from companies and brands who are making headway in this difficult arena, such as Marks & Spencer, Sky, Virgin, Toyota, Tesco, O2 to give an indication of the potential of this route. John Grant creates a 'Green Matrix' as a tool for examining current practice and the practice that the future needs to embrace. This book is intended to assist marketers, by means of clear and practical guidance, through a complex transition towards meaningful green marketing. Includes a foreword by Jonathon Porritt.

Cooperative bene comune CÉCILE BERRANGER 2020-08-10 Il presente volume nasce con l'ambizioso obiettivo di comprendere come e perché l'impresa cooperativa costituisca uno strumento valido per la costruzione e la gestione condivisa dei beni comuni. Per raggiungere questo obiettivo, al volume hanno contribuito diciannove autori tra accademici e cooperatori. Il libro è composto da tre sezioni: 'identità, valori ed obiettivi', 'buone pratiche e nuovi orizzonti cooperativi' e 'startup cooperative'. Come nel caso del 'The Co-operator' di King, che creò una guida pratica e teorica per i cooperatori del futuro, il volume aspira a riaprire un dialogo tra gli accademici, impegnati nello studio dell'impresa cooperativa, ed i cooperatori. Un dialogo all'insegna del bene comune.

Geography and Revolution David N. Livingstone 2010-08-15 A term with myriad associations, revolution is commonly understood in its intellectual, historical, and sociopolitical contexts. Until now, almost no attention has been paid to revolution and questions of geography. Geography and Revolution examines the ways that place and space matter in a variety of revolutionary situations. David N. Livingstone and Charles W. J. Withers assemble a set of essays that are themselves revolutionary in uncovering not only the geography of revolutions but the role of geography in revolutions. Here, scientific revolutions—Copernican, Newtonian, and Darwinian—ordinarily thought of as placeless, are revealed to be rooted in specific sites and spaces. Technical revolutions—the advent of print, time-keeping, and photography—emerge as inventions that transformed the world's order without homogenizing it. Political revolutions—in France, England, Germany, and the United States—are notable for their debates on the nature of political institutions and national identity. Gathering insight from geographers, historians, and historians of science, Geography and Revolution is an invitation to take the where as seriously as the who and the when in examining the nature, shape, and location of revolutions.

Treadmill of Production Kenneth A. Gould 2015-11-17 Schnaiberg's concept of the treadmill of production is arguably the most visible and enduring theory to emerge in three decades of environmental sociology. Elaborated and tested, it has been found to be an accurate predictor of political-economic changes in the global economy. In the global South, it has figures prominently in the work of structural environmental analysts and has been used by many political-economic movements. Building new extensions and applications of the treadmill theory, this new book shows how and why northern analysts and governments have failed to protect our environment and secure our future. Using an empirically based political-economic perspective, the authors outline the causes of environmental degradation, the limits of environmental protection policies, and the failures of institutional decision-makers to protect human well-being.

This Bridge Will Not Be Gray Dave Eggers 2018-03-13 A “witty [and] compelling” true story for kids about San Francisco’s Golden Gate Bridge—and why it’s orange—by the New York Times-best-selling author! (Fast Company). In this delightfully original nonfiction book, National Book Award and Pulitzer Prize finalist Dave Eggers tackles one of the most famous architectural monuments in the world: the Golden Gate Bridge—and all the arguments and debates about building it and what it should look like. Cut-paper illustrations by Tucker Nichols enliven the tale, and this revised edition also includes real-life letters from local constituents making the case for keeping the bridge orange. With sly humor and lots of fascinating historical facts, this is an accessible, enjoyable read for kids (or adults), transporting readers to the glorious Golden Gate no matter where they live. “Eggers’s featherlight humor provides laughs throughout.” —Publishers Weekly (starred review). “A love letter to infrastructure.” —The New York Times “A story compelling enough to keep adults interested as they read it (and re-read it and re-read it) each night at bedtime.” —Fast Company

Frontier Socialism Monica Quirico 2022-07-06 Considering the history of workers' and socialist movements in Europe, Frontier Socialism focuses on unconventional forms of anti-capitalist thought, particularly by examining several militant-intellectuals whose legacy is of particular interest for those aiming for a radical critique of capitalism. Following on the work of Michael Löwy, Quirico & Ragona identify relationships of “elective affinity” between figures who might appear different and dissimilar, at least at first glance: the German Anarchist Gustav Landauer, the Bolshevik Alexandra Kollontai, the German communist Paul Mattick, the Italian Socialist Raniero Panzieri, the Greek-born French euro-communist Nikos Poulantzas, the German-born Swedish Social Democrat Rudolf Meidner, and the French social scientist Alain Bihr as well as two historical struggle experiences, the Spanish Republic and the Italian revolutionary group “Lotta continua”. Frontier Socialism then analyzes these thinkers' and experiences' respective paths to socialism based on and achieved through self-organization and self-government, not to build a new tradition but to suggest a path forward for both research and political activism.

The Refugee Surge in Europe Mr.Shekhar Aiyar 2016-01-19 Against the background of political turmoil in the Middle-East, Europe faces an unprecedented surge in asylum applications. In analyzing the economic impact of this inflow, this paper draws from the experience of previous economic migrants and refugees, mindful of the fact that the characteristics of economic migrants can be different from refugees. In the short-run, additional public expenditure will provide a small positive impact on GDP, concentrated in the main destination countries of Germany, Sweden and Austria. Over the longer-term, depending on the speed and success of the integration of refugees in the labor market, the increase in the labor force can have a more lasting impact on growth and the public finances. Here good policies will make an important difference. These include lowering barriers to labor markets for refugees, for example through wage subsidies to employers, and, in particular, reducing legal barriers to labor market participation during asylum process, removing obstacles to entrepreneurship/self-employment, providing job training and job search assistance, as well as language skills. While native workers often have legitimate concerns about the impact of immigrants on wages and employment, past experience indicates that any adverse effects are limited and temporary.

Rethinking education: towards a global common good? UNESCO 2015-05-26 Economic growth and the creation of wealth have cut global poverty rates, yet vulnerability, inequality, exclusion and violence have escalated within and across societies throughout the world. Unsustainable patterns of economic production and consumption promote global warming, environmental degradation and an upsurge in natural disasters. Moreover, while we have strengthened international human rights frameworks over the past several decades, implementing and protecting these norms remains a challenge. These changes signal the emergence of a new global context for learning that has vital implications for education. Rethinking the purpose of education and the organization of learning has never been more urgent. This book is inspired by a humanistic vision of education and development, based on respect for life and human dignity, equal rights, social justice, cultural diversity, international solidarity and shared responsibility for a sustainable future. It proposes that we consider education and knowledge as global common goods, in order to reconcile the purpose and organization of education as a collective societal endeavour in a complex world.

Reshoring Ade Asefeso MCIPS MBA 2014-08-14 Reshoring is essentially the opposite of offshoring, it is a term used to describe the act of bringing back offshored manufacturing to a country. In the beginning of 2011, for the most part, most people thought that this was just impossible, that there would be no reshoring to the U.S. or UK, that everything was going to China, manufacturing was leaving both countries and it will never come back and I think the striking thing is how much that's changed in the last three years. You went to China because it was just so cheap you couldn't help it; but if you've got the engineers and people in the U.S. or UK, and the customer base in the U.S. or UK, you'd like to be close to the customer. It gives you a shorter supply chain.

Art Cities, Cultural Districts and Museums Luciana Lazeretti 2004 "The subject of economic valorisation has become a current topic and the idea that culture can be considered a factor of economic production, able to generate wealth, appears to have been generally accepted. The book consists of a series of essays about the economic valorisation of the cultural, artistic and environmental heritage of the art city of Florence using a business economics approach and will appeal to scholars and researchers focusing on the cultural economics and managerial economics of art and to practitioners in the cultural sector and policy makers." -- Publisher's description.

I paesaggi dell'abbandono in Lombardia: forme, strumenti e risorse AA. VV.

2022-12-16T00:00:00+01:00 Nell'universo del "non uso" rientra un vasto caleidoscopio di architetture e di geografie che, in ragione di molteplici forme, storie e pratiche del passato, compongono un complesso e straordinario mosaico. Si tratta di un palinsesto insediativo che deve conservare un ruolo rilevante nelle riflessioni tecniche, politiche e scientifiche pena la scomparsa definitiva di una parte considerevole della nostra identità. I testi contenuti in questo volume, oltre a misurarsi con l'eterogeneità dei luoghi dell'abbandono presenti nel territorio lombardo, si confrontano con la necessità di proporre alcune riflessioni di carattere operativo e progettuale. Grazie al contributo di differenti autori appartenenti ai "mondi" dell'Accademia, delle professioni e delle istituzioni pubbliche, sono suggeriti temi, strumenti e approcci consapevoli del valore di un patrimonio architettonico e paesaggistico da custodire per le generazioni future.

Sustainable food planning: evolving theory and practice Andr © Viljoen 2012-03-30 With over half the world's population now deemed to be urbanised, cities are assuming a larger role in political debates about the security and sustainability of the global food system. Hence, planning for sustainable food production and consumption is becoming an increasingly important issue for planners, policymakers, designers, farmers, suppliers, activists, business and scientists alike. The rapid growth of the food planning movement owes much to the fact that food, because of its unique, multi-functional character, helps to bring people together from all walks of life. In the wider contexts of global climate change, resource depletion, a burgeoning world population, competing food production systems and diet-related public health concerns, new paradigms for urban and regional planning capable of supporting sustainable and equitable food systems are urgently needed. This book addresses this urgent need. By working at a range of scales and with a variety of practical and theoretical models, this book reviews and elaborates definitions of sustainable food systems, and begins to define ways of achieving them. To this end 4 different themes have been defined as entry-points into the discussion of 'sustainable food planning'. These are (1) urban agriculture, (2) integrating health, environment and society, (3) food in urban design and planning and (4) urban food governance.

Absolutism and Society in Seventeenth-Century France William Beik 1985 This analysis of the provincial reality of absolutism argues that the relationship between the regional aristocracy and the crown was a key factor in influencing the traditional social system of seventeenth century France.

Progress of the World's Women 2015-2016 Summary UN Women 2015 This UN Women's flagship report shows that, all too often, women's economic and social rights are held back, because they are forced to fit into a 'man's world'. But, it is possible to move beyond the status quo, to picture a world where economies are built with women's rights at their heart. It is being published as the international community comes together to define a transformative post-2015 development agenda, and coincides with the 20th anniversary commemoration of the landmark Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing, China which set out a comprehensive agenda to advance gender equality. This publication brings together human rights and economic policymaking, and provides the key elements for a far-reaching new policy agenda that can transform economies and make women's rights a reality. Through solid in-depth analysis and data, this evidence-based report provides key recommendations on moving towards an economy that truly works for women, for the benefit of all.

From Columbus to ConAgra Alessandro Bonanno 1994 This examination of the role of agriculture and food in the new international division of labor argues that the globalized economy creates new winners and losers.

I centri minori italiani nel tardo Medioevo Centro di studi sulla civiltà del tardo medioevo (San Miniato, Italy). Convegno 2018-01-01 In the late Middle Ages, Italy was one of the most urbanized areas in Europe. Its coasts, the Apennines, the perialpine area and the plains were all home to a large number of smaller towns, lands, villages, castra, and 'quasi cives'. These settlements were all very diverse in terms of demographic consistency, social articulation and economic dynamism, but together they constituted a characteristic and constitutive element of the Italian historical identity: an 'original personality'. This volume, thanks to some framing essays and a mapping of individual cases involving most of the northern, central and southern regions, aims at investigating the active research on this topic over the last thirty to forty years.

Managerial Flow Veronica Vecchi 2015-04-10 When globalization affects jobs and economies, policy makers strive to plan, design and implement actions to support their communities and businesses (Ansell and Gash 2007). Furthermore, local development policies are at the core of international cooperation programs or more in general represent a challenge for emerging countries. They could refer to infrastructure, entrepreneurship innovation or urban renewal. However, more frequently than not, development policies, which involve different institutional levels and public and private players, fail due to poor implementation management. This research book presents a managerial approach (the so called Managerial Flow) that could help the closure of gaps that hamper an efficient and effective policy execution. The managerial flow model observes the phenomenon of policy implementation for economic development through managerial lens. In the book, the research team has empirically identified five gaps in practice whereupon public policy implementation falls down. As a response Managerial Flow model outlines sets of managerial actions that can be adopted to facilitate a clear 'flow' from policy development through to implementation. This book expands on the Managerial Flow model, and acts as both a practical guide to stimulate evidence based policy implementation in governments and as theoretical contribution to policy and strategy execution. Written for researchers and academics, this book begins by outlining the theoretical foundations of Managerial Flow and moves to unpack application and cases, based in different sectors and countries, in order to discuss and show how the Managerial Flow approach can concretely support managers in the implementation of economic development policies. It reviews and discusses how the managerial flow could be relevant in the implementation of a set of sectorial policies and uses the managerial flow concept to analyse cases of economic development and establish lessons for broader management scope.

The Consumer Society Jean Baudrillard 2016-12-13 Jean Baudrillard's classic text was one of the first to focus on the process and meaning of consumption in contemporary culture. Originally published in 1970, the book makes a vital contribution to current debates on consumption. The book includes Baudrillard's most organized discussion of mass media culture, the meaning of leisure, and anomie in affluent society. A chapter on the body demonstrates Baudrillard's extraordinary prescience for flagging vital subjects in contemporary culture long before others. This English translation begins with a new introductory essay.

From Novice to Expert Patricia E. Benner 2001 This coherent presentation of clinical judgement, caring practices and collaborative practice provides ideas and images that readers can draw upon in their interactions with others and in their interpretation of what nurses do. It includes many clear, colorful examples and describes the five stages of skill acquisition, the nature of clinical judgement and experiential learning and the seven major domains of nursing practice. The narrative method captures content and contextual issues that are often missed by formal models of nursing knowledge. The book uncovers the knowledge embedded in clinical nursing practice and provides the Dreyfus model of skill acquisition applied to nursing, an interpretive approach to identifying and describing clinical knowledge, nursing functions, effective management, research and clinical practice, career development and education, plus practical applications. For nurses and healthcare professionals.

Food for Degrowth Anitra Nelson 2020-11-22 This collection breaks new ground by investigating applications of degrowth in a range of geographic, practical and theoretical contexts along the food chain. Degrowth challenges growth and advocates for everyday practices that limit socio-metabolic energy and material flows within planetary constraints. As such, the editors intend to map possibilities for food for degrowth to become established as a field of study. International contributors offer a range of examples and possibilities to develop more sustainable, localised, resilient and healthy food systems using degrowth principles of sufficiency, frugal abundance, security, autonomy and conviviality. Chapters are clustered in parts that critically examine food for degrowth in spheres of the household, collectives, networks, and narratives of broader activism and discourses. Themes include broadening and deepening concepts of care in food provisioning and social contexts; critically applying appropriate technologies; appreciating and integrating indigenous perspectives; challenging notions of 'waste', 'circular economies' and commodification; and addressing the ever-present impacts of market logic framed by growth. This book will be of greatest interest to students and scholars of critical food studies, sustainability studies, urban political ecology, geography, environmental studies such as environmental sociology, anthropology, ethnography, ecological economics and urban design and planning.

Città fai-da-te Carlo Cellamare 2020-01-27T00:00:00+01:00 «Il movimento di riappropriazione di luoghi e spazi della città non è solo una presa di “possesso”, ma un re-immettere nel ciclo di vita della città spazi e luoghi abbandonati, inutilizzati, sottoutilizzati, degradati, potenzialmente interessanti, per rispondere a esigenze sociali diffuse, sviluppando un’idea di città e un modello di convivenza che si pongono come alternativi alla città del consumo, soggetta alle pressioni prevalenti del mercato e degli interessi economici». Le città sono attraversate da processi di riappropriazione, da forme diffuse di autorganizzazione, da attività e iniziative autogestite, da nuove pratiche di convivenza, da movimenti che cercano di costruire una diversa e nuova idea di città. Si tratta di un vasto fermento che interessa, anche se in modi molto diversificati, tutte le città del mondo. Dagli orti condivisi alle aree verdi autogestite, dalle occupazioni a scopo abitativo alle fabbriche recuperate, dai luoghi di produzione culturale riattivati ai tanti servizi autoprodotti sui territori, alle mille iniziative del protagonismo sociale e della progettualità diffusa, tutte queste esperienze e tutte queste pratiche non sono solo forme di riconquista degli spazi ma anche processi che conferiscono nuovo significato ai luoghi. Sono espressione della vitalità dei territori e degli abitanti, organizzati o meno; sono laboratori sociali, culturali e politici. Da semplici forme di resistenza sono diventate azioni diffuse che producono concretamente la città, mettendo in discussione il modello neoliberista che sembra strangolarle. Lungi da un romanticismo dell'autogestione, sono anche esperienze cariche di ambiguità, oltre che di difficoltà, frutto come sono dell'arretramento del welfare state e dell'abbandono dei territori da parte della politica e delle istituzioni. Sono qui in discussione «culture di pubblico» differenti. Roma, da questo punto di vista, ha forse qualcosa da dire al mondo, nonostante sia diffusamente considerata una città in difficoltà. «Città fai-da-te» per eccellenza, la capitale rivela energie importanti, che non sempre vengono riconosciute e valorizzate, in risposta a una necessità concreta e a esigenze sociali che non trovano soddisfazione, ma che sono anche espressione di creatività, capacità di azione, desiderio di costruire un futuro, possibilmente diverso. A partire da un viaggio attraverso una molteplicità di pratiche e di esperienze urbane, attraverso le loro difficoltà, il loro impegno, le loro passioni, ma anche in alcuni casi le loro ambiguità, il libro vuole restituire una riflessione di più ampio respiro che dialoga con i processi globali. Qui si ridiscute l'idea di pubblico, si ripensano le istituzioni, si costruisce concretamente un'idea diversa di città e di convivenza. Questi sono i luoghi dove avviene oggi la produzione di cultura politica.

Cittadini, sempre e comunque! Everardo Minardi 2023-03-21 Il dibattito acceso sul Reddito di Cittadinanza nasce da un dovuto riconoscimento di quote crescenti di popolazione, non solo adulta e anziana, ai margini del mercato del lavoro; anche quote significative di giovani, nonostante i percorsi di istruzione attuati, si trovano in difficoltà per filtri selettivi per tanti aspetti poco giustificabili che non ne consentono la occupazione. La presenza ulteriore di una quota rilevante di persone immigrate e non ancora riconosciute in pieno dalle normative in vigore, rende ancora più comprensibile e giustificata la domanda di un reddito che porti al riconoscimento della cittadinanza piena. La logica assistenziale spesso però prevale nella gestione del reddito di cittadinanza che invece deve portare ad una progressiva autonomia di coloro che ne fanno richiesta, con la necessaria distinzione con le quote di popolazione già ai margini della vita economica e sociale. Al di là dei diversi modi di concepire e rappresentare la risorsa economica integrativa e inclusiva per persone che vivono nella marginalità, va comunque affermata e riconosciuta la cittadinanza come un diritto che non può distinguere, selezionare i cittadini, ma deve affermarne la loro autonomia e la loro responsabilità; una responsabilità non solo individuale, ma anche delle istituzioni che gestiscono una risorsa per tanti importante e insostituibile per una vita dignitosa.

Augmented Urban Spaces Fiorella De Cindio 2016-04-08 There have been numerous possible scenarios depicted on the impact of the internet on urban spaces. Considering ubiquitous/pervasive computing, mobile, wireless connectivity and the acceptance of the Internet as a non-extraordinary part of our everyday lives mean that physical urban space is augmented, and digital in itself. This poses new problems as well as opportunities to those who have to deal with it. This book explores the intersection and articulation of physical and digital environments and the ways they can extend and reshape a spirit of place. It considers this from three main perspectives: the implications for the public sphere and urban public or semi-public spaces; the implications for community regeneration and empowerment; and the dilemmas and challenges which the augmentation of space implies for urbanists. Grounded with international real-life case studies, this is an up-to-date, interdisciplinary and holistic overview of the relationships between cities, communities and high technologies.
