A Gemstone in the Rock Donato Placido and Olga Matsyna 2012-05-30 Once Bukowski was asked: "Do you believe in God?" He replied: "No, I believe only in horses. I do not know why we always realize things when it is too late. I've also bet on horses for a period. But, differently from Bukowski whom I respect so much, I quit horses and bet on God. Really, I think it is for this faith that I found myself with my back against the wall. "Against the wall" was the first title I wanted to give to this book. There are a lot of people in the world: tramps, prisoners, all types of emarginated people who are alienated just because, in my opinion, they do not manage to keep pace with a cheering occidental cult of efficiency, to keep up with the rules for which the society, the system did not forgive them. But Christ said: "I came to the world for the ill, not for the sane". Thus, is it really true the last will be the first? Maybe, if, as far as I know, a probable God does not consider things the way people do. Anyway, what I have never understood is: there is a baby born from Gypsies and there is another one born from a rich American family. What is the fault of the first one whose destiny is immediately signed? A mystery! So, "A Gemstone in the Rock", in its essential message, is an invitation to bet on God as it is the only chance we have in our life. It is also an invitation to pray—to pray more often during the day. Even at work. But without putting the entertainment aside: it gives colours to our life. That's why the title is "A Gemstone in the Rock": life is nothing but a precious stone in the rock: you can observe it in its splendour but you cannot take it with your naked hands. As far as the emarginated people are concerned, let us help them bearing in mind that, differently from what the main part of respectable Catholics think, to help them is not at all a walk of pleasure. I say it with a poem: "How much pain I get for a kiss to a poor wretch!" "This book has got a particular: it is like a human being in the course of his life with it's high and low moments between faith and total loss of courage". P.S. As far as my poem "Now" ("Faith") is concerned, for a question of a dramaturgic effect I left the sequence of the passion events according to my poetic license". Have a good time reading! Sincerely, Donato Placido This book was born as a synthesis of our writings, our thoughts and vision of the world. I made Donato's acquaintance while he was focused on hypotheses of a staged version of a Pirandello's play. His poetry published and appreciated in Italy, inspired me. I proposed to him being published abroad. I read Donato's material thoroughly and put it in a sequence (I would rather say I had to cut it like a movie: his writings evoke movie-like images). This book owes to me its structure, order and some chapters: trilogy "Loneliness of Light" I wrote on the basis of apocryphal Gospels found in the Dead Sea in 2004, in particular, Judas' and Magdalene's Gospels. However, the dialogue between Judas and Magdalene (staged in 2006 in Moscow at an international festival of directing plays) and Magdalene's monologue are of pure intuition (or, if we prefer so, of artistic invention). Other book parts of which I am the author are: the dialogue "Puppets of freedom" inspired by "Danton's Death" by Georg Büchner, extracts from Disillusions (money, power, female love), extracts from Absence and silence ("The end of the world", "Silence, loneliness and . . ."), the whole chapter of "Encounter" (which is Donato's novel of the same name I put in a nutshell and in blank verse) and my poem on a true love, "Till the darkness". In a human life everyone passes from happiness to despair, from the idea of God dissolved in everything to the idea of his absence, one stakes on the material goods accumulation, on power, on love, even on the idea of freedom—but then one notices all these concepts are only illusions, just glimpses

Padre Salas Enrique Laso 2017-12-29 This is the story of Padre Salas, the most charismatic character from the bestselling novel Hell Calling, which dazzled thousands of readers across the globe, and has recently been adapted for cinema by Luis Endera. In this prequel, we discover what caused Padre Salas' flight from Mexico, leading to his taking refuge in Madrid. We will encounter the terrifying cases of multiple possessions of several girls in towns and villages around Guadalajara (Mexico). This is a novel filled with moments of excitement, tension, and no shortage of fear, guaranteed to captivate all those who love the genre. Extract from Chapter 1: The girl had spent the entire night howling. It was a visceral noise, more commonly associated with a wild animal, than the gaunt, virtually emaciated body of a little girl, who was barely ten years old. She lay curled up on a rough bed, which had been thrown together out of lumpy sacks of hay. Her parents, more out of desperation than resentment or fear, had confined her to a shed, which they used mainly for keeping the rain off the farming tools, and for storing a few low-value belongings that they had inherited over the years from different family members. The doctor approached the child with apprehension; she seemed to be sleeping, although her breathing was broken by a constant shaking that was not of human origin. "How many days has she been lying in this state?" "A... a week..." the mother dared to say, certain that she was about to receive an immediate reprimand from the doctor. The doctor heaved a sigh of resignation and, picking up the girl's hand, he tried to measure her pulse. He felt a shiver run down his spine as he noticed that her heart was hardly beating at all... little more than 20 beats per minute! It was completely impossible.
