On this journey of self discovery I endeavor to be more self aware, revisiting my past to gain clarity for my future. Delving into my faults and insecurities to allow for restoration. I encourage you to indulge in the same types of reflections and introspections by utilizing the self assessment prompts following each piece.

Letters to My Future Self Taylor Lehman 2013-03-12 This is a book about my young life in ministry

What I Know Now Ellyn Spragins 2008-04-01 If you could send a letter back through time to your younger self, what would the letter say? In this moving collection, forty-one famous women write letters to the women they once were, filled with advice and insights they wish they had had when they were younger. Today show correspondent Ann Curry writes to herself as a rookie reporter in her first job, telling herself not to change so much to fit in, urging her young self, “It is time to be bold about who you really are.” Country music superstar Lee Ann Womack reflects on the stressed-out year spent recording her first album and encourages her younger self to enjoy the moment, not just the end result. And Maya Angelou, leaving home at seventeen with a newborn baby in her arms, assures herself she will succeed on her own, even if she does return home every now and then. These remarkable women are joined by Madeleine Albright, Queen Noor of Jordan, Cokie Roberts, Naomi Wolf, Eileen Fisher, Jane Kaczmarek, Olympia Dukakis, Macy Gray, and many others. Their letters contain rare glimpses into the personal lives of extraordinary women and powerful wisdom that readers will treasure. Wisdom from What I Know Now “Don't let anybody raise you. You've been raised.” —Maya Angelou “Try more things. Cross more lines.” —Breena Clarke “Learn how to celebrate.” —Olympia Dukakis “You don't have to be afraid of living alone.” —Eileen Fisher “Please yourself first . . . everything else follows.” —Macy Gray “Don't be so quick to dismiss another human being.” —Barbara Boxer “Work should not be work.” —Mary Matalin “You can leave the work world—and come back on your own terms.” —Cokie Roberts “Laundry will wait very patiently.” —Nora Roberts “Your hair matters far, far less than you think” —Lisa Scottoline “Speak the truth but ride a fast horse.” —Kitty Kelley

The Flashback Pragya Gaur 2020-06-24 I don't know when you all are going to read this or maybe you are or not. Why I said this you'll understand through the pages. Motive to write these 30 letters to my readers and future me is just that I want to show my future self after going through what all I have been where I am so that in future I don't take any step that is not good for me. And the second motive is, I know there are people like me what I was in the past. I just want to help them in any way I can may be they get motivated and know how to deal with situations. I think this book should be read by all introverts or the people who are not able to open up because this is how I got the idea to form these letters and that's how I changed myself into someone I always wanted. Being reserved sometimes grows your problems and stress. You need to be outspoken even if you want to work in an MNC. Some letters in it would explain this in better way. “You don't need to handle all the world's problems all by yourself”. That's how I decided to write this book. I hope my journey from an extreme introvert to an outspoken can help my readers in any way.
