Management Dell'Innovazione in Agricoltura E Relazioni Di Canale Nadia Di Paola 2013 Il lavoro di ricerca si focalizza sull'analisi della relazione che insiste tra la Grande Distribuzione Organizzata - GDO e l'impresa agricola, nel caso particolare in cui si ipotizzi l'introduzione di una innovazione nel segmento del prodotto orticolo fresco a foglia. Si mostra che gli effetti che l'innovazione può generare non si dischiudono se l'innovazione non è giustamente percepita ed apprezzata dal consumatore. La tecnica utilizzata per l'analisi dei dati è la Grounded Theory, che permette di procedere alla concettualizzazione sistematica dalle evidenze raccolte; il problema di ricerca è "modellizzato" attraverso una code map che tiene conto delle interazioni emerse. The interactions among Italian farmers and large-scale retailers affect food innovation proliferation and effectiveness, in particular as regards leaf products. The effects that innovation may generate do not disclose whether the innovation content is not rightly conveyed to the consumer. The Grounded Theory approach allows to achieve the systematic conceptualization of the evidences; the research problem is "modeled" through a code map that takes into account the relationships among the crucial categories.
